

Indifference

I've known fear

I've known fear in a person's eyes

My soul has been weighed down with guilt

I walked the streets where people ran from the police

I shut my pockets to the people begging on the streets

I turned my head to the disabled on the trains

I ignored the cries of the silent people in pain

I've known fear

Fear in a person's smile

My soul is forever imprisoned